Each Workshop is repeated two times.

WORKSHOP #1: Young Republican Women – A Panel Discussion

Ms. Shari Frasure, President of the Clark County Republican Women’s Club, will facilitate this panel discussion as to just what makes a young millennial woman move to the Conservative side of politics. What has motivated her to take a perceived unconventional move to join the Republican Party and become an advocate for the Conservative philosophy? You say you want young women in your club, but are you ready to make the changes needed to attract and promote young women? Come hear from a group of women who can help you make the difference.

WORKSHOP #2: Growing the Republican Party through Diversity

Ms. Jennifer McVay Martin, Family Law Attorney-Lexington, will facilitate this important panel discussion. Mixing diverse groups of men and women into one political party requires change and understanding of the different cultures, time commitments and individual priorities in life for each person. Join this challenging discussion of Republican Party members who are significant representatives of what the Republican Party stands for.

WORKSHOP #3: Women in Politics – Behind the Scenes

Ms. Shawn Baker, Kenton County Republican Women’s Club, will facilitate this panel discussion. Ever wonder what prompts a woman to work on a political campaign? Put her personal life “on hold” for the candidate she works for? Move to D.C. when her candidate is elected? Remain behind the scenes while doing the work that puts her candidate in the winner’s column? Learn from this panel what motivated them to enter politics, what keeps them in politics, and where they would like to go with their careers.

WORKSHOP #4: Improving Membership – Ms. Roseann Slonsky-Breault, NFRW Membership Committee Chairwoman

Ms. Roseann Slonsky-Breault, NFRW Membership Committee Chair, will lead you through a discussion on various ways to increase and retain membership in your clubs. A positive back/forth discussion will help stimulate interest in reaching out across previous barriers to diversify and expand the Republican women’s imprint on your local, state, and national campaigns.
